DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 30-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Speasl et al.

Speasl et al. disclose a first sensor (404a, which senses temperature through a channel) responsive to an environmental factor (such as temperature) in a first location; a second sensor (404a, which senses temperature through a different channel) responsive to an environmental factor (such as temperature) in a second location (col. 4, line 67 through col. 5, lines 1-3); an output device; and a processor (418) coupled to the first (404a, through a channel) and second sensors (404a, though a different channel) capable of comparing the environmental factor in the second location and activating the output device (such as an audible alarm when a threshold difference in the environmental factors is sensed - col. 7, lines 34-43); the environmental factor is humidity (col. 6, lines 1-10); the airflow across the sensor is substantially restricted (the airflow across the sensor restricted from the ambient environment outside the container).

Claims 1-6, and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Smirnov.

Smirnov discloses a toy comprising a breath sensor (paragraph 0077, lines 1-3); an output device (paragraph 0033, lines 1-3); and a processor (21) operatively coupled to the breath sensor (paragraph 0077, lines 1-7) and to the output device (paragraph 0033, lines 1-3) wherein the processor (21) is adapted to cause the toy to interact with a user (paragraph 0045, lines 1-12); the processor (21) is further adapted to cause the toy to exhibit a behavior in response to user input (paragraph 0048, lines 1-10); the processor (21) is further adapted to cause the toy to elicit behavior in a user and detect the behavior (paragraph 0048, lines 1-10); the breath sensor includes a humidity sensor (paragraph 0077, lines 1-3); a reference sensor (paragraph 0077, lines 3-5, providing a corresponding sensor connected to a processor; since the corresponding sensor is connected to a processor [which stores digital values] it is inherently capable of detecting an ambient value); the breath sensor includes a temperature sensor (5), and the toy is a stuffed figure (e.g. a teddy bear).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 23-29 are allowed.

Claims 7, and 11-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
